FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1911.

The Waters Case.

Citizens, who are for the most part parents of children who attend Knowles School, assembled in a mass-meeting Monday night to offer a protest against the retention of one Prof. George Waters as teacher in said school. The meeting was well attended, as was anticipated by all who have given the case any consideration. No inflammatory remarks were uttered, but every speaker put such emphasis on his or her utterances that made it clear that they were determined in what they were going about.

This case has aroused the Negroes of Nashville as they have never been before, and they are awakening to a sense of their duty as citizens and as the parents of children. This case demands the attention of all right-thinking people. It is not the intention to impress our readers that we have been blind to other evils that exist now, nor to the crimes that have been committed of a similar nature, but the peculiar circumstances surrounding this case were unbearable; it was the "last straw" that "broke the camel's back," and the people have arisen in their might and are demanding that this man, who so far forgot himself as to put his reputation under the feet of dogs, suffer for the mistake.

It is alleged that Mr. Waters has said the Negroes of this city have nothing to do with his case. If this allegation is true, it proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that he is incapacitated to serve the public in any capacity whatever. If the people who pay the taxes, and who send the children to school to be taught are to have no say as to who shall teach their children, what authority is there that is high enough to do so? If such a statement was made it is simply a false conception of things. It is true that the Negro citizens of Nashville have slept on their rights, but they are theirs just the same.

Mr. Waters cannot remain as a teacher if he is objectionable to the patrons of the school; the mass-meeting on Monday night went on record as opposed to him, he is therefore objectionable to them and will have to go. It is to the best interest of the people, Prof. Waters not excepted.

Justice in Rutherford.

The verdict of the jury in acquitting two Negroes at Murfreesboro last week is a fair example of the sentiment that is taking healthy root in Tennessee. These men were charged with having committed an assault upon a white woman, and it has been a custom in this state and throughout the South to put such parties to death in the quickest and most barbarous way possible, no attempt being made to find out whether the parties accused be guilty or innocent. The action of the jury in the case at Murfreesboro was just the reverse. The parties were given the benefit of the law and were able to establish an alibi, and as a result were given their freedom.

Another feature of this case is the character of the attorneys who handled it are among the best in the state. Their very presence in the defense of these men had the effect of satisfying the public that justice would be done the prosecutor, and no attempt at violence was thought of. Again, one of the main witnesses was a Negro man, and upon his testimony depended the ability to prove an alibi. The court accepted his statement, coming as it did from a man who was able to receive the endorsement of the leading business men of the community.

It is a sign of a better day for this grand old state. It is an indication of a desire on the part of the strong to be merciful toward the weak. It also shows the worth of a good character. It proves to the world that the black and white people of the South can live together in peace and harmony if all will do their level best to promote that peace.

The white firemen of the Queen & Crescent Railroad have put the selves in the class of men who are styled proverbial jackasses. Black men are as much entitled to work as firemen on trains as men of any other race. Efficiency should control in such cases.

Warships of many types, war balloons, aeroplanes and what not may be introduced, but when it comes to real was the army mule holds his place.

The Crisis for February is a splendid literary production. Such a magazine has a place of distinction in the development of the race.

Col. Roosevelt has emerged from his seclusion. We suppose he is trying his wings to see if they will be ready for sailing in 1912.

EDITORIAL CLIPPINGS.

WHAT'S IN McCLURE'S.

The leading feature in the March McClure's is "Will Congress Put Our Navy on the Sea?" an article on Secretary Meyer's fight against waste and bureaucracy in the navy. Of timely interest to New Yorkers is Burton J. Hendrick's article on "McAdoo and the Subway." This is the story of how Mr. McAdoo built the Hudson tube and an outline of his present proposition for the new subway. The latest installment of the "Masters of Capital" series, by Joan Moody and George Kibbe Turner, deals with Rockefeller and "The Standard Oil Company—Bankers." The second of the great series of detective stories by Detective Burns, the story of the famous "Monroe-Head Counterfeit Case," appears in this number of McClure's, and Ellen Terry has contributed another chapter of her Reminiscences, this time on "Some Letters and their Writers." The special fiction feature in the March number is the first instalment of "The Honeymoon," a short play by Arnold Bennett. Among the stories are "In the Funerals," by Helen Green; "The Tooth of Antar," another Syrian story by Lucille Baldwin Van Slyke; "The Test," by Frances Ludwig; and "A Lost Job," by Arthur E. McFarlane.

BISHOP LANE WELL AND HEARTY AT 77.

Royally Entertained by His Three Sons—Many Distinguished Guests—Handsome Presents.

Special to the Globe. Jackson, Tenn., March 6.—As one passes down the avenue of life it is worth while to place some special mark upon the milestones on the way, for such a mark not only serves to make a happy occasion, but also offers an opportunity for high and noble resolve. It was such an occasion that brought together a goodly number of citizens of Jackson last Friday afternoon, March 3rd, to celebrate the 77th birthday anniversary of the venerable Bishop Isaac Lane, of this city. The affair was a informal luncheon given in his honor by his three sons, Mr. J. W. Lane, Dr. H. W. Lane and President J. F. Lane, of Lane College.

In all, more than sixty guests partook of the hospitality of these gentlemen and the Bishop was delighted not only by the gifts alone, but by the happy company who had come to rejoice with him.

Distinguished among those present, aside from the members of the family were the members of the Lane College faculty, Mr. Clarence Cameron White, the violin artist of international fame, Editor A. J. Cobb, of the Christian Index, and Mrs. G. W. Montgomery, of Columbus, Ky., and Prof. G. T. Halliburton, of Hickman, Ky., besides many others.

This organization is one of the most powerful in the country and its progress has been phenomenal. The Grand Lodge of Tennessee has jurisdiction over all of the cities and counties in this state. Twenty males are required to organize a new lodge. The benefits paid constitute one of its strongest features, but the principles are greater than anything else. Founded on friendship, based on Charity and established on Benevolence, the respectable, upright people of the state will find it an Order worthy of their heartiest support.

It pays an endowment of $300 and burial benefit of from $30 to $50. It pays $3.00 to $4.00 per week sick dues. The badge costing 75 cents is the only absolutely necessary regalia.

For information concerning the organization of lodges apply to

ADMISSION, 25c.

REV. J. A. JONES, Manager.

At 11 o'clock Sunday next, the monthly university sermon will be preached by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Evans Tyree, D. D., of the A. M. E. Church.

During the past week Dean Hubbard visited Chicago, where he attended the annual meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges, of which Meharry is a member and also the meeting of the Medical Council of Education of the American Medical Association. While there Dr. Hubbard met a number of Meharry graduates who are practicing their profession in Chicago, all of whom are doing well. He visited the dental department of Northwestern University and had an opportunity of seeing the practical work in the dental operator, also had interview with president Harris, Dean Black and Dr. Coke, Secretary of the Dental College. This is one of the largest dental schools in the United States with a roll of over three hundred students.

A course of lectures in electro-therapeutics is being delivered to the Senior Medical Class by Dean Hubbard.

On Monday evening a number of the nurses of the Hubbard Hospital and their friends were nobly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kennedy, of East Nashville.

Miss Maude J. Roberts, of the Walden faculty, appeared at Clark Memorial Chapel on Tuesday evening last.

GORDON CHAPEL NEWS.

We are doing an excellent work. The class leaders have a very stirring interest in their new pastor, Rev. W. L. Denton. On Sunday, in spite of the unfavorable weather, the leaders were successful in raising a nice little sum for the pastor, as follows: Class No. 1, Mr. D. January leader, who is our oldest and most interested leader, raised $7.45; Class No. 2, Mr. J. Bledsoe, who has been sick for several weeks, but yet he was able to be at his post Sunday and this class raised $3.25. Leader of Class No. 4, J. W. Rouse, amount raised, $8.00.

The special services of the day were good. At 11 a. m. the congregation was much impressed with the little boy preacher who preached at 3 p. m. Rev. Felix Mayes preached a very interesting sermon from John 3:16 at eight p. m. Rev. W. L. Denton, the pastor, preached.

PEARL HIGH SCHOOL.

Some time ago there was organized at Pearl High School building a Student Benefit Association. The purpose of this association was to aid some worthy graduate of Pearl High to further prosecute his studies in some college, the choice of the college to be left to the student himself. The teachers entered heartily into this worthy work and in the fall term they had funds sufficient for one student. The student was chosen and put in Fisk University. Reports of his work have been so encouraging that the teachers are ambitious to enter another student. The pupils of Pearl High have been delighted with the work and wish to do something to help the fund. Prof. Smith was unwilling to have them fail in their efforts and has been helping them prepare a musical concert. The concert will be given by the Young Men's and Young Ladies' Glee Clubs. They have worked earnestly to have a classical concert and hope to present it in a few weeks.

YOUNG LADIES OF ROGER WILLIAMS VISIT.

Last Saturday afternoon we had a most delightful visit from the young ladies of Roger Williams University, chaperoned by Mrs. Hampton and Miss Grimes. Later in the afternoon Prof. Jackson joined them, also Prof. Dawson and Dr. Marshall from Meharry Medical College. We were glad to hear the girls express themselves in verses from the Bible. Last Saturday afternoon was an enjoyable event in the Sunshine Home. We are glad at all times to welcome the students and make it pleasant for them.

Monday, the 13th, at 10 a. m. Parents' Conference meets in the office of the Sunshine Home. Mrs. H. B. Alston will give the review lessons. We hope very much that all of the ladies will be interested in the lessons and come out on time.

Miss Burnette, who has been indisposed for the past three months, is out again.

Sister Moore writes that she is still weak, but she is up and writing the Hope lessons.
